"Wait for God’s Call" is an excellent and comprehensive theological treatise on euthanasia, one of the major life issues of today. It also deals effectively with the related question of suffering from a properly Catholic perspective. This book, no doubt, will be an invaluable handbook for pro-life workers all over the world. For an enlightened Catholic witnessing in our times this book is a must.

Mar Joseph Powathil
Archbishop Emeritus of Changanacherry, India

From a legal and moral point of view the issue of euthanasia is very important today. By reading this book, we realize the richness of Catholic contributions to bioethics. The author has accomplished a staggering task in this work. This is a reference manual on Catholic bioethics in the area of euthanasia and physician assisted suicide.

Prof. Paul Schotsmans
Professor of Medical Ethics, KU Leuven, Belgium

"Wait for God’s Call" captures the pure essence of life from beginning to end. With careful research, the author affirms that life is a gift from God and only God has the power to take that gift away. The author explores the moral difference between ordinary and extra ordinary treatment and proposes a Christian care ethics for the terminally ill patients.

Theresa Auletta
Oyster Bay, New York, USA

Scaria Kanniyakonil is a priest of the archdiocese of Changanacherry. He took his doctorate in theology (STD/Ph.D) from the Catholic University of Leuven. He has authored 11 books and 35 articles in English and Malayalam on moral and theological issues. Currently, he is a lecture of moral theology at Paurastya Vidyapitham, Vadavathoor, Kottayam, India. He also teaches bioethics at John Paul II Institute Cana, Thuruthy, India.